Kensington kids start after-school day care

New enrichment program begins Sept. 8

By MARTI KELLER
KENSINGTON — Kensington kids will have a new option for after-school enrichment when Sept. 8.

The enrichment program is the result of a community effort begun by a small group of concerned parents. They were interested in "providing important programs which are no longer being offered in our school, extending the instructional day, and providing alternative care for children of working parents," according to committee chair Ron Eggherman, assistant director of the University Art Museum in Berkeley.

Eggherman's two daughters attend Kensington Hilltop School.

The group has grown from four to 20 since last spring and includes parents, teachers and members of the Kensington Community Council. They were responsible for bringing the original proposal to the council, run for nine week periods throughout the school year.

So far, the group has raised $3,300 of the $6,250 members estimate will be needed to initiate and support the program during the first year. In July, the program was awarded a $2,500 grant from Chevron USA and parents in the community have pledged $400.

Eggherman just submitted a grant request of an additional $2,500 to the East Bay Community Foundation. The rest of the first year's budget he anticipates will be met through class fees, individual pledges and a small appropriation from the Community Council of $350.

The program has hired a part-time director, Marsha Mattson Robben, whose major responsibilities include design and implementation of the program, hiring and supervising the specialized staff, publicity, administration, and teaching some classes.

Robben was hired at the end of August, and has found classroom space at the elementary school and in the Kensington Youth Hut, begun registration and met with key community leaders.

Robben taught last year at the Albany Children's Center, and has previous teaching experience at all grade levels through high school. She has been a board member of the Berkeley Art Center, a member of the steering committee of the Friends of Berkeley Parks, and a violinist with the Albany Adult Orchestra.

Of the 55 families that responded to the June survey, 86 percent were willing to pay the estimated $2 per hour fee (with a higher fee for computer classes). The majority was interested in using the after-school program three to five days a week and most of them wanted the program to continue during holiday periods. Most of the families also indicated

New panel studies charter proposal

By STEPHEN BUEL
ALBANY — At the urging of the city's Charter Review Committee, the City Council has approved a special subcommittee to study a proposed civil service ordinance which could replace a section of the city's charter next November.

Members of the city's Peace Officers and Firefighters associations also will be encouraged to attend the subcommittee meetings, though not in the capacity of voting members. As a public body, meetings of the subcommittee are open to the public.

The four members of the City Council in attendance Monday seemed fairly confident that little serious work remains on the ordinance, the bulk of it already having ning around inside and outside, sometimes blindfolded and sometimes almost just barely falling off, he makes the wheel revolve at speeds of up to 70 mph.

His next device is the Mechanical Monster, a fire-spouting electric revolving cherry-picker crane upon which Our Hero climbs and swings, again almost just barely falling off, and he is also the rider of the Meteorcycle, which cruises up and down a high wire with a pretty girl just barely falling off a trapeze underneath.

The King Charles Troupe, the first all-black circus act in history, was among the most popular acts at Tuesday's opening night performance. The troupe consists of 12 unicyclists performing a precision basketball routine that moves faster than the eye can follow.

Riders could do virtually anything with the basketball that ordinary folks on two feet could do, including somehow dribbling the ball between their legs without getting it tangled up in the unicycle.

And if that weren't enough, the troupe ended its act with a display of high speed backwards hand-springs from one end of the arena to the other, although they did have to dismount from the unicycles for those.

Animal acts are a circus tradition and this year's offerings include trained dogs, tiny horses, enormous tigers and ponderous pachyderms, some of which looked like they were actually enjoying wearing sequined

'Freedom' cyclists stop here on way across America

By KEITH EASTHOUSE

ALBANY — With the morning sky just beginning to get light, two of a team of 12 cross-country cyclists recently pedaled down San Pablo Avenue to Albany's City Hall Saturday, halfway through a 9,700-mile journey in commemoration of the signing of the United States Constitution 195 years ago.

Accompanying them as they made their way along the dim avenue on Aug. 28 were council member Ed McManus and six members of the East Bay Bicycle Coalition, a club dedicated to bicycle safety and recreation. On hand to greet the bikers were Mayor Ruth Ganong, vice mayor Anne Rotramel and council member Henry Kruse, as well as planning commission member Phyllis Lyon.

Proclaiming Aug. 28 "America's Freedom Ride Day" in Albany, the city officials became part of a growing list of community representatives to honor the efforts of a team of cyclists in their 50-state odyssey.

"America's Freedom Ride" (as the trip is called) requires individual initiative and mutual cooperation to succeed and these hallmarks of the American spirit have been nurtured and protected by our Constitution," said Rotramel, reading from a proclamation as the cyclists looked on.

One of the bikers, Lorne Cherns, 25, said he was undertaking the journey because he loved his country.

School budget OKd, unhappily

Few attend final public hearing

By KEITH EASTHOUSE

ALBANY — One week before its deadline, the Board of Education adopted a $7,628,111 budget for fiscal year 1982-83.

Receiving no objections to the budget during a sparsely attended public hearing, the board unanimously gave its approval before the Sept. 7 deadline despite serious misgivings.

"We are not happy with the budget," said Superintendent of Schools Stephen Goldstone. "We are extremely displeased that we received no increase in income from the state."

The Albany Unified School District will receive from the state this fiscal year what it did last — $4,440,590. According to Goldstone, the district should have received a 3 percent cost-of-living increase over this figure but didn't because the State Legislature has put a freeze on such increases for school districts.

Goldstone said that before Proposition 13 was passed in 1978, 60 to 70 percent of the school district's money came from local property taxes. Since then, he said the vast majority of the money has come from the state.

"The State Legislature has become a super school board with all the power in the world, but none of the responsibility to actually operate the programs," Goldstone said.

Goldstone added, however, that some good fiscal policy on the part of the district has produced a reserve of $170,000 that will make things a little easier.

"Due to our attempt to bring in a little more income, we are starting with a bit of a reserve," Goldstone said. "In general though, we are operating on slightly less income than last year. It's the ending balance from last year that we're bringing over to this year that's helping us."

Other sources of income for the school district besides the state include the federal and county government as well as local taxes.

More than 70 percent of the budget is in salaries, according to Goldstone.

"Employee salaries will not keep up with inflation," he said.

Calling all local merchants

The Solano Avenue Association is encouraging all merchants and volunteers participating in the Solano Stroll to attend an association meeting on Friday, Sept. 10, at 8 a.m. at the Albany Public Library.

The agenda will concentrate on plans for the Stroll, set for Sept. 19.

Ex-sailor pleads guilty to El Cerrito bank holdup

By DON McCORMACK

EL CERRITO — An ex-sailor who pleaded guilty to the "most stupid thing I have ever done" — holding up an El Cerrito bank — will be sentenced Sept. 27.

When Billy E. Alderson, 25, robbed Twin Pines Federal last May 24, the teller gave him a booby-trapped packet of red dye and tear gas.

The packet exploded in a cloud of red just as he got into his car, forcing him to ditch his shoes and most of his clothes, according to court files.

Alderson, who entered his plea last week, told authorities he was under a lot of pressure to repay a debt to his father and acted on impulse.

The Antioch man borrowed his girlfriend's car for the robbery and bought a plastic gun.

As he talked to the teller, he kept a hand hidden in a pocket.

"This is a robbery," his note said. "Please fill this bag up."

Someone sounded the alarm and another teller watched Alderson while he got into his car.

When the packet went off, Alderson dropped the money and ran to a nearby alley where he threw his jacket and shoes into a dumpster and later got rid of his pants and T-shirt, escaping in cutoff shorts, court reports said.

Police traced him through the car.

The county probation department has recommended five years probation and a stretch in jail "to impress him."

Coffee set at Marin

ALBANY — All parents of Marin School students are invited to a First Day Coffee in the school library on Sept. 13 at 8:45 a.m. Refreshments will be provided by PTA board members.

Marin School principal Jon Frank will be on hand to welcome parents. Representatives of the school's PTA and Site Council will also be present.

All parents are encouraged to attend.

Cherns, a florist from Jamaica, N.Y. "I'm taking part in this because it's a way I can offer something to this country."

The Constitution is what America's Freedom Ride is all about. Signed September 17, 1787, the Constitution will have its bicentennial birthday five years from now. Cherns said the bike tour, financed by grants from several companies, is the inaugural event of a nationwide celebration.

"The Constitution created a central government," Cherns said. "Before it, there were 13 separate governments. The Constitution brought them together."

Appropriately, the bikers plan to end their 47-day journey this Sept. 17 at the National Archives in Washington, D.C., where the Constitution is kept. Here they will present representatives of the three branches of the Federal Government with proclamations gathered from the various communities they have passed through.

In the meantime, the team of eight men and four women will pedal east, across the southwestern deserts and the deep south. Ranging in age from 17 to 37, the group started out from City Hall in New York City on Aug. 2, went north into New England and then west, through the northern states, until they met the Pacific Ocean in Washington. They then came south to California, their 28th state.

Representatives of the group, which has its headquarters in Jamaica, New York, left for San Francisco International Airport on Friday for a stop in Anchorage, Alaska and Honolulu, Hawaii.

Riding in three teams of four, the bikers have a van and 32-foot-long mobile home, the team of four. Two bikers ride in six-hour shifts, which they usually cover from 60 to 80 miles a group as a whole, which generally stops at a camp ground for a rest in the early hours of the morning averages some 250 miles a day.

Along with Oakland, Albany was selected as one of two cities in Alameda County to receive cyclists. By the time they reach Washington, the bikers will have passed through over 100 communities, 310 counties, 24 national forests and national parks.

Travelling mostly on secondary highways, Cherns said the bikers have received high support and affection.

"A lot of people have come out from the streets offered their hearts," said Cherns, a man who has covered as much as 315 miles in his races. "We've really been to Hometown, U.S.A. We've had breakfast with mayors and been to county fairs."

To show her support, Mayor Gersoni, wearing a bicycle helmet, rode off with the cyclists on a pedaled north on San Pablo Avenue. The council member McManus accompanied them to the El Cerrito border.

Charly Baumann's trained tigers are almost worth the price of admission all by themselves, for their sheer size and beauty let alone their ability to jump through fiery hoops and roll around on the ground in unison. # Will RUSD resurrect buses, music from the dead?

Parents plea for restoration of programs

By BARBARA ERICKSON

A long and painful saga of the Richmond Unified School District budget may end next week with the minute resurrection of two programs killed earlier this summer — safety busing and elementary music.

After hearing the final budget review Wednesday at Heins Junior High School, the school board reports on how to bring back at least part of the lost programs.

Board plans to adopt the final budget next week, but even after the budget has been filed with the Office of Education the district may shift funds between programs.

Two groups of parents appeared at Wednesday's meeting, each to argue for restoring one of the programs. Parents in favor of busing said their children would be forced to walk across busy streets or along roads without sidewalks.

"There's too much of a hazard involved," said Linda Wilde, who suggested that families might split the cost with the district.

Sandra Young and other parents said the cost of paying Patchett's Bus Co. to provide private transportation would be too high. Patchett's would cost a minimum of 98 cents a day per child if the buses were full and made two runs to two different schools.

The busing cuts, which saved the district $411,000, left 1,200 students without transportation. Board members said not all of the busing provided last year was urgently needed. They asked the staff to report on where conditions remain hazardous.

Some said students from Parchester Village are severely affected by the loss because the neighborhood has no school and students have to go long distances and cross dangerous streets.

Parents supporting the restoration of the elementary music program said the district should try to provide a program with five teachers at a cost of $125,000. The district estimated it would save $247,000 by eliminating the program.

Parent Wes Jensen made an eloquent plea for the program, saying, "Can our children and classrooms be without a song to sing? It's like a bird that can't fly."

The parents suggested dipping into the district's $466,308 reserve fund or eliminating flexible scheduling at Kennedy High to free up $90,000. By some combination the district could come up with the $125,000 needed for a barebones music program, they said.

Parents who spoke up for busing also eyed the reserve fund, and some suggested that the district insure itself to save on the cost of providing benefits to employees. Officials said the benefits are part of employee contracts that cannot be changed until negotiations reopen next year.

Board member Goy Fuller opened up the possibilities for saving the busing program by saying he had voted on the cuts in the hope that the state would provide additional funds and the transportation could be restored. Instead, the Legislature gave no increase over last year's schools funding.

"If children don't get to school they aren't going to learn anything," he said. He added, "It's certain we can't pay all of the bill. Maybe we can pay part of it."

Board members Don Lau and Katherine Lord asked that the district also take a look at restoring part of the elementary music program.

"If we're going to do it on the 11th hour for safety busing," she said, "we have to do it on music too."

The board cut busing for all except handicapped students and the Career Development Center in the face of a $5 million deficit. Other cuts included the elementary music program, prep time for elementary teachers, the sixth period in most of the secondary grades, counselor aides, the work experience program, and other items.

Richmond Unified this year has a $62.07 million general fund budget compared to $61.38 million for 1981-82. With increases in expenses, the district was forced to cut programs to balance the financial plan.

Astro-graph /Bernice Bede Osol

If your birthday is today, Sept. 5: It's to your advantage to update yourself on current knowledge in your profession. There are some large opportunities which will be available within the next year and they will go to the one who is best-informed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
It's not likely you'll be overwhelmed by major expenses today, but nickel-and-dime stuff may cause you to spend more than you intended.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Normally you're very tactful and diplomatic. However, today you may be so anxious to get your points across you'll not let others voice theirs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
It's best you temporarily shelve tasks today which require an aptitude for detail. You may not have the patience for small factors.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
You'll be in a sociable and gregarious mood today, and enjoy mixing with friends. However, you must be careful not to discuss subjects which you shouldn't.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Others like and appreciate you for what you are so, there is no need for pretense or airs. Using affectations diminishes your image rather than enhancing it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
It's not wise to pretend today that you're knowledgeable about certain things if you are not. Someone who is might put you on the spot by asking embarrassing questions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
There is a possibility today that you could talk about personal matters to the wrong people. If you do, it's very likely that what you say will be broadcast.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Your freedom and mobility will be important to you today, so steer clear of persons who may try to dictate how you are to spend your time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Be careful today not to talk too critically about a co-worker to another co-worker. What you say could get back and cause hard feelings.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Strive to be tolerant and understanding today when supervising youngsters. If you lay down too many rules, it's likely they'll ignore them all.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
The spotlight will be on you today whether you choose it or not, so be careful how you conduct yourself, especially in front of gossiping types.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
If you expect others to respect your views and opinions today, then you must first show an appreciation for theirs. Don't cast the first stones.

If your birthday is Monday, Sept. 6: This coming year family ties may take on a greater importance for you than they have in the past. Events will tend to strengthen the love that binds you together.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Tally everything up on paper and try to be as fair as possible, or else either you or the other person involved will feel he or she got the raw end of the deal.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You may not be able to please everyone today, so your best bet is to go along with the majority. Don't attempt to back any unpopular causes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
If there is work to be done today, you'd be wise to depend only on yourself. If you expect help from co-workers, I'm afraid you'll be disappointed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
The only way you can hope to insure that nobody's nose gets bent out of shape today is to treat all your friends with extra tact. Even then you may not win.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Although you may experience some unpleasantness today, your family's support for you will warm your heart and make everything right.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
If you feel you need an objective opinion concerning something important to you, take care to consult only those who are kind as well as wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Some unscrupulous individuals may attempt to make you feel guilty if you don't share your good fortune with them. They're the selfish ones, not you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
As long as the control of situations remains in your hands there isn't anything you wouldn't do for others, but it's another story should they want to handle things their own way.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
As much as you'd like to assist a family member today, the reins may be taken out of your hands. This person will have to stand on his or her own two feet.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Although you may knock yourself out today trying to appease someone in your social group, nothing you do could be enough. Don't let it spoil your day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Keep your cool, no matter how much opposition you run into today. Maintain your dignity. You'll be the one who'll come out looking good.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Even if you know somebody is wrong, don't volunteer correction. You, above everyone, should know charm wins allies. And being a know-it-all doesn't.
